

Does your data adhere to legal and regulatory requirements?

Aggressive change in Compliance demands thorough expertise in nearly 15,000 laws and regulations.

"Cross-border discovery has become a major source of international legal conflict, and there is no safe way forward.

At the heart of these conflicts are vastly differing notions of discovery and data privacy and protection".

~ Sedona Conference

As the global economy moves to the digital era, oversight will continue to be a major component of organizational strategy and responsibility. Just as regulations in the United States demand special consideration by global organizations, the European Union and Australia have also developed laws and regulatory agencies with oversight responsibility for how organizations manage their data and operations. Compliance and governance are now global imperatives for doing business in the 21st century.

At SCG, we believe compliance and governance are essential for effective data and information management. Compliance and governance are as much technical issues as they are cultural, and often it takes efforts for organizational change to fully realize the benefits of both. In many cases, these initiatives begin because of some change in law or regulation—but simply addressing a singular change results in a patchwork of processes that do not completely address the realities of today's complex organizational environment. Comprehensive program design, specialized legal research, and executive facilitation and knowledge transfer sessions are the hallmarks of our compliance and governance consulting services.

Our scalable methodologies and resources provide any size enterprise with cutting edge solutions for lifecycle information management.
